Harrison sweeps past Warfield

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — In an upset, Clayton "Jug" Harrison defeated incumbent Mac Warfield 3,530 to 172 Tuesday for superintendent of streets.

Warfield has held the post for the past nine years.

As precinct results slowly trickled into his headquarters at the Knights of Columbus hall Tuesday evening, a "cautiously optimistic" Warfield grew anxious.

"I'm sure we're going to win this thing," he said. "But I'm not taking anything for granted."

The race remained extremely close until the final precincts were tallied.

Earlier in the evening, Sandy Pence, Warfield's campaign chairman, predicted a Warfield victory "by a two-to-one margin."

But when the final tally was announced at 11:02 p.m., Warfield graciously conceded the race.

"It looks like we lost by 45 votes," Warfield said quietly to the crowd of about 250 supporters. "I would like to thank you all for helping me. This (loss) was more my fault than anyone's. I guess the 7th Ward sewer brooks hurt us real bad."

Warfield turned and left the building with a small entourage of family members and friends at 11:07 p.m.

Meanwhile, at "Jug" headquarters, 1735 Pontoon Road, news of the results had not yet been received. A reporter arrived at 11:12 p.m. to find Harrison on the telephone receiving calls.

When the final results were posted, a jubilant cry erupted. An area resident

Stickers on sale, off sale

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — In perhaps the biggest April Fool's Day incident of the year, city vehicle license window stickers were on sale, and then not on sale, in the city clerk's office Monday.

City Clerk Robert Stevens announced last week that stickers would be available for purchase at five locations in the city beginning April 1.

But the joke was on area residents, as the stickers were available for a period of only about six hours before sales were cut off.

An official in the clerk's office estimated that about 500 stickers were sold (at $5, or $1 for the first disabled or senior citizen license per family).

Hundreds of other residents were turned away empty-handed.

No reason was forthcoming as to why sales were halted, but speculation from an anonymous city employee was that the city was contemplating a fee increase.

The City Council voted last month, on a motion by Alder

Wilson wins by 6-vote margin

PONTON BEACH

Six votes decided the four-way mayoral race in one of the area's hottest elections.

All incumbent officials were re-elected, regardless of some splitting into different parties.

There were three slates of office seekers and an independent candidate for mayor (village president).

Unofficial final vote totals show incumbent Village President Glen Wilson of the Progressive Action Party receiving 388 votes and Raymond L. Gaudette of the Concerned Action Party receiving 382 votes.

Also in the four-way race for village president, Michael L. Macek, an independent candidate, totaled 125 votes and Randall E. Presswood of the New Direction Party received 114 votes.

"Yes, it was close. I've felt better, but I'm not too worried about it," Wilson said of the election.

Despite winning, Wilson wasn't happy with the way the balloting turned out. The Village Board of Trustees has frequently been in turmoil with endless disagreements among many residents who attend the meetings and contend.

The incumbents, divided between two parties, were all returned to office.

"I hope we'll be able to work together," Wilson said. "At least we've got four years to try."

The fiercely contested election continued heating up outside the Pontoon Beach Senior Center polling place even as late as 5 and 6 p.m. Tuesday. Polls closed at 7 p.m.

"The result is unofficial right now and if any discovery is made we will ask for a recount," Gaudette said Wednesday.

"It was really close and I don't know what we will do yet. We will do some counting and checking of the spoiled ballots."

Voters oust 2 aldermen

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Two incumbent aldermen lost their re-election bids Tuesday and two other incumbent aldermen survived close races.

Incumbent 7th Ward Alderman Emerald Dawes was handily defeated by challenger Sandra Crites.

Dawes ranked fifth in seniority among the 14 aldermen.

Crites drew 65 percent (965 votes) of the vote to Dawes' 35 percent (527 votes).

In a closer race in the 1st Ward, incumbent Frank Scarsdale (42 percent, 184 votes) was defeated by challenger Juanita Crawley (58 percent, 251 votes).

Scarsdale was appointed by Mayor Von Dee Cruse in 1989 to serve the remainder of the term of the late Everett Morlen.

Incumbent 4th Ward Alderman Dan Partney managed a 75-vote victory over challenger Sandra Shaw. Partney received 850 votes (82 percent) to Shaw's 775 votes (48 percent). The 4th Ward's 1,625-vote total was the highest single ward total in the city.

In a three-way race in the 5th Ward, incumbent Thomas Candler received a 45 percent plurality (375 votes) to defeat challengers Eddie Asadorian (293 votes, 35 percent) and David Bailey (167 votes, 20 percent). Candler was appointed by Cruse to finish the term of the late Lloyd Bailey, who died in December.

Dawes, who has been either an elected or appointed official since first being elected an alderman in 1957, said it was a bitter defeat.

"I got beat, and I got beat bad," Dawes said Wednesday. "This is the end for me in politics. I've had a belly full. I've been defeated before, but I've never been beat this bad in my life. It hurts."

Dawes said he knew that a lot of the voters in the 7th Ward have valid complaints about the city's services, but there just hadn't been enough money in the city to fix all the things that needed fixing.

"It was just impossible," he said. "Maybe a

'Help' in voting is criticized

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

PONTON BEACH — Some very special people took advantage of their voting privileges for the first time Tuesday, but not without controversy.

Approximately 30 residents of L.V. Haven Manor and Lewis and Clark Manor — group homes for the developmentally disabled — reported to the Pontoon Beach Senior Citizen Center to exercise their right to vote Tuesday at about 4 p.m.

Reaction from observers and candidates ranged from pride in the electoral system to anger. Motivation seemed to be the key question in most observers' minds.

Bill Marsh, director of social services for the developmentally disabled, said he was surprised by the verdict, having expected at most for Hayes to receive the involuntary manslaughter conviction that Gitchoff had argued for.

"I don't think he (Hayes) ever intended to kill that boy," Gitchoff said. "But the judge is supposed to know these things. This is just one time I didn't agree with him."

Madison County State's Attorney William Haine said the case was tragic but well-tried.

17-year-old found guilty of murder

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — After cautioning a packed courtroom Wednesday against any emotional outbursts, Associate Judge J. Lawrence Keshner found a 17-year-old Granite City youth guilty of first-degree murder.

Leon J. Hayes buried his face in his right hand after Keshner announced the verdict. He was later whisked away by Madison County Jail officials before the courtroom had completely cleared.

Teary teenagers exited the courtroom supporting one another.

Keshner said he had carefully considered all the evidence and testimony regarding the Oct. 3 stabbing death of Dwight David Sumner, 21, of Alton before making a "difficult" decision.

"Actions speak louder than words," Keshner said before pronouncing Hayes guilty.

Hayes waived his right to a jury trial, opting for a bench trial, which ended last week.

On the last day of that trial, Hayes testified that he swung a knife at Sumner to protect himself and to scare Sumner, who he said was beating him.

Hayes had also testified that he was attacked by Sumner when he (Hayes) attempted to intervene in a fight between another youth, Christopher Logan, and Sumner on the Vandalia Bicycle Trail parking lot in Alton.

Defense attorney John Gitchoff said he was uncertain if Keshner's decision would be appealed, noting that it is more difficult to overturn a judge's verdict than a jury's.

Gitchoff said he was surprised by the verdict, having expected at most for Hayes to receive the involuntary manslaughter conviction that Gitchoff had argued for.

"I don't think he (Hayes) ever intended to kill that boy," Gitchoff said. "But the judge is supposed to know these things. This is just one time I didn't agree with him."

350 tour Medical Center

More than 350 area residents last month enjoyed a trip to the hospital. No, there wasn't a mass epidemic or some mysterious virus. St. Elizabeth Medical Center held an open house.

From 1 to 3 p.m. on a Sunday, groups of visitors toured the SEMC Auxiliary's Gift Shop and Coffee Shop, the 3-Surgical Unit, Skilled Nursing Unit, Neuro-Rehabilitation and Inpatient Physical Therapy Area, and the Endoscopy Lab.

"I'm glad so many of our friends from the community could come and see how nice the renovations turned out," said Sister Mary Thomas, chairman of the board at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. "The open house was special because of the enthusiasm the associates showed. They are very proud of their areas and rightly so."

The open house was designed to celebrate the medical center's 70th anniversary of caring for the community.

It showed visitors the importance of technologically advanced equipment and training in providing quality health care. The tours also emphasized human touches, friendly smiles, attractive and comfortable surroundings, and the philosophy of providing all the information needed for persons to make good health care choices.

"The success of the open house was the enthusiasm of the SEMC associates who gave the time and shared their knowledge and expertise with the public to give a better understanding of high-tech care," said Mary Hogan, vice president of nursing. DaAnne Chenault, supervisor of the Surgical Unit, played a big part in organizing the open house.

"We wanted to focus on the whole surgical team. We had so much to show our visitors that we outgrew the rooms that were originally planned," Chenault said.

"We wanted the open house to be an extension of our teaching. There is no comparison when taking care of a well-informed patient, and we have many new techniques and new equipment that can allow for better management of pain. We were motivated by what we could present to support our teaching efforts for our patients."

All of the enthusiasm made some jobs at the open house a little more difficult, according to Liz Briggs, former SEMC Auxiliary president and one of the tour leaders.

"I was very impressed with the floors and the personnel," Briggs said. "Everything was set beautifully, and the associates were well-versed in their areas. It made it harder to lead the groups, though. They would get so interested in one area that they would lag behind when you started to move on. All the reports I heard from our visitors were happy. I think everyone learned a lot."

Preparations for the open

SEMC OPEN HOUSE: Viola Schmieg (right) shows a group of visitors some of the instruments used in the operating room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Children were welcomed at the open house in the hope that familiarity with the medical center would make them less afraid if they needed any of SEMC's services. Schmieg has been at St. Elizabeth for 31 years.

house involved associates from almost every department in the medical center.

In addition to the highlighted areas, representatives from other related departments, services and support groups manned booths and gave health-related information for visitors to take home and enjoy after the open house. There were some surprises along the way for visitors who hadn't been to St. Elizabeth for awhile.

"People were interested in what they were seeing. There was a steady stream of visitors," said Jackie Haug, director of Physical Therapy.

"Some of our former patients toured the area and were surprised at the changes we had made. The Neuro-Rehabilitation and Inpatient Physical Therapy areas were highlighted in the tour. Our inpatient and outpatient therapy services have been divided into two locations because of the increase in the number of patients we have had."

The tour also included the newly refurbished Skilled Nursing Unit and Respite Care Program.

"Everyone who went through seemed to really like the home-like atmosphere and philosophy of the Skilled Nursing Unit," said Sandy Hilmer, SNU supervisor. "The staff is really proud of our unit and enjoyed the chance to show it off."

From all accounts, the open house was a product of the same team effort St. Elizabeth Medical Center applies to all the services offered, a spokeswoman said.

"Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves, and we all worked well together," said Helen Bischoff, president of the SEMC Auxiliary.

"One of our visitors told me she thought St. Elizabeth Medical Center was the best kept secret on this side of the river," Chenault said. "With the overwhelming response at the open house, I don't know if that is accurate any more."

Briefly

Families to be honored here

On Saturday, April 6, a Desert Shield/Desert Storm Spouse and Children Appreciation Day will be held here.

The social event will last from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Recreation Center, Building 125, Melvin Price Support Center, Illinois 3 and Niedringhaus Avenue.

Annual fashion show, brunch

The Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Women's Division will hold its sixth annual style show and brunch Saturday, April 6, at 11 a.m. at the Sunset Hills Country Club, Edwardsville.

A brunch will be followed by fashions from 11 area merchants. The latest spring styles for women and children will be featured. The cost is $14. Tickets are available at Tops and Bottoms, 1343 19th St.; Kokomo Tans, 2126 Pontoon Road; Mail Service Plus, 1369 Niedringhaus Ave., the chamber, 1831 Delmar Ave., and from members of the women's division.

Proceeds support the division's Christmas party for underprivileged children as well as beautification projects.

Prizes will be given. Participating stores are Beans and Jeans, Cuties Coutures, Fashion Gal, Glik's, Kokomo Tans, and Tops and Bottoms in Granite City; Ann Patrice Shop in Collinsville; and Inge's Bridal, Mary Ann Shop, Plum Pretty and Sandy's Ltd. in Edwardsville.

Old Six Mile dance, auction

Old Six Mile Historical Society's sixth annual dinner dance and silent auction, celebrating the group's 10th anniversary, will be held Saturday, April 13, at St. Gregory's Armenian Hall, Granite City. Music for dancing will be provided by John Fornaszewski's band.

Cocktails and the silent auction will start at 5:30 p.m., with dinner at 6:30, entertainment at 7:30 and dancing from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Admission is a $12.50 donation. For tickets, persons may call General Chairman Hazel Rollins at 931-1243. Tickets also are available at the Tops and Bottoms Shop, 1343 19th St., 876-7892.

Man said to have injured 12-year-old

Randall K. Parks, 34, of the 2900 block of Palmer Avenue was booked for battery and criminal trespass to a residence following a disturbance in the 2500 block of Kirkpatrick Homes in which he allegedly battered a 12-year-old boy.

According to the boy's mother,

Parks entered the Kirkpatrick apartment uninvited, sat on her son's chest and twisted his arm at about 8:30 p.m. March 31. The mother said a doctor at the emergency room of St. Elizabeth Medical Center told her the boy's arm was dislocated and his ribs bruised.

Driver injured in Route 162 crash

Richard L. Moore, 45, of Belleville suffered an injury in a traffic accident at 5:39 p.m. March 29 on Route 162 about 450 feet east of Maryville Road.

Moore said that, after a train cleared the roadway, auto traffic began to move. A car in front of him stopped suddenly, causing him to stop his car.

Richard L. Olson, 37, of the 2800 block of Herbert Street said he was driving west on Illinois 162 when Moore's car stopped in front of his truck and a collision resulted. Olson was ticketed for operation of an uninsured motor vehicle.

Sentenced for apartment theft

Michael P. Jackson, 17, of the 100 block of Briarwood was sentenced March 12 to two years of probation by Associate Judge J.L. Keshner for theft of over $300 value.

The charge, reduced from burglary, is related to the Jan. 20 burglary of an apartment on Briarhaven.

David B. Cuppett, 18, of the 3000 block of Buxton Avenue was sentenced March 11 to one year of probation for burglary. Circuit Judge Edward Ferguson handed down the sentence.

In a Feb. 6 occurrence, Cuppett took a 1986 Dodge Aries auto parked in the 2300 block of Lincoln Avenue.

Ricky A. Motes, 20, of the 2400 block of Kirkpatrick Homes was sentenced March 8 to four years in a state prison for residential burglary. Associate Judge J.L. Keshner ruled that Motes be given credit for time served since Feb. 21 when Motes was charged with the burglary of a home in the 2900 block of National Avenue.

Luvonia Woolfolk, 34, of the 1200 block of Douglas Street, Venice, was sentenced March 11 to 30 months of probation for state benefits fraud.

Associate Judge J.L. Keshner also ordered Woolfolk to pay $4,935 in restitution.

She failed to report employment to the Illinois Department of Public Aid from December 1987 to March 1989 while continuing to receive benefits.

Shedding some light on a touchy subject—

Each year, more than 450,000 Americans are diagnosed with skin cancer—one of the most common forms of cancer. Studies show skin cancer is caused by repeated sun exposure, and in many cases can be prevented by taking a few simple precautions.

Fortunately, skin cancer is the easiest cancer to detect, and if found early enough, most cases can be treated successfully.

Terrell defeats incumbent

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

VENICE — Challenger Michael Terrell defeated incumbent Charles Collins in the only contested aldermanic race here Tuesday.

Terrell, a member of the Illinois State Police, received 70 percent (111 votes) in the 1st Ward race to Collins' 30 percent (48 votes).

"To give it to you in a nutshell, I have no plans," Terrell said Wednesday. "Instead, we have plans. By we I mean the people of Ward One."

Terrell said he is forming a ward citizens committee that will meet together an hour before each City Council meeting to decide what is best for the ward. The committee then will attend the council meeting with Terrell.

"I said, 'I can't do this by myself.' But with 15 people each representing 15 families sitting there in the audience and requesting something, it will be real hard for the City Council to say no," he said.

Terrell said the 1st Ward is the only ward in Venice which has no public housing and "90 percent of our residents are homeowners." He said that means his constituents are paying the most taxes and he feels they deserve more benefits.

Collins could not be reached for comment.

In the other Venice wards, incumbent 2nd Ward Alderman Silver Lee Franklin received 72 of 87 votes, incumbent 3rd Ward Alderman George Lewis received 111 of 113 votes and incumbent 4th Ward Alderman Victor Valentine received 71 of 75 votes cast.

Antonovich write-in effort fails

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

MADISON — Write-in candidate Michael Antonovich Jr. wasn't allowed to vote for himself Tuesday — challenged at the polling place — and his wife Jennifer were not permitted to cast ballots.

A candidate for 2nd Ward alderman, Antonovich was removed from the ballot after the Madison Election Board ruled his residence, located in a building on the boundary with Granite City, was not within the Madison city limits. The board's ruling was upheld by the Madison County Circuit Court.

The election judges on Tuesday agreed with the board and their ruling was upheld by County Clerk Evelyn Bowles.

As a write-in candidate, Antonovich only got about two dozen votes, being easily defeated by Ralph W. Miller of the Madison Centennial Party. Miller got 255 votes.

In Madison's other three wards, Centennial Party incumbent Andy Economy received 130 of the 146 votes cast.

In the 4th Ward, Norris Horton garnered 147 of 151 votes cast.

In the 3rd Ward, incumbent John Hamm III received 144 of 148 votes cast. Hamm's election means he continues to be a member of both the City Council and the Madison School Board, a dual role for which he has come under fire from Madison City Attorney Casper Nighohossian. Although Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine issued an opinion that the two offices are not in conflict, and declined to take action to remove Hamm from either, Nighohossian said he believes a conflict does exist.

At Nighohossian's request, the City Council voted last month to request a court hearing on Hamm's status.

Hamm said Wednesday, "I received no negative reaction yesterday from my constituents. Nothing negative at all from anyone in the community, only supportive comments. On the whole, it was a pretty good turnout for having no opposition. I feel real comfortable with it."

If it comes to a court ruling, Hamm said, "I'll do what's right."

Fireman accused of arson fired

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

MADISON — A Madison firefighter accused of arson will be terminated as a member of the Madison Volunteer Fire Department.

Keith L. Endicott, 24, of the 1400 block of Third Street, Madison, pleaded not guilty March 28 to two counts of arson. He has since been charged with an additional count of arson and one count of attempted arson.

Endicott's case came up at Tuesday night's meeting of the Madison City Council when Madison Fire Chief Robert Robbins advised the council he had suspended Endicott and recommended Endicott's termination as a volunteer fireman.

The aldermen went into executive session to consider the action and later voted unanimously to refer the fire chief's letter to the mayor, as the city's executive officer, to make a decision on Robbins' recommendation.

"I have reviewed the letter of the fire chief and the (termination) recommendation of the fire chief and I am going to concur with the recommendation," Mayor John Belloff said after the council session.

"An official notice is being prepared to this effect: He (Endicott) is suspended right now," Belloff added.

Robbins suspended Endicott for 30 days for violating Rule 5 of the "General Rules and Regulations for the Madison Fire Department."

The rule states that a member of the fire department is governed by the ordinary rules of good behavior by a law-abiding citizen.

The suspension was subject to any action the mayor and council might choose to take, Robbins said. He said Endicott has been charged with three felony counts of arson and one felony count of attempted arson.

Robbins recommended that

Endicott's membership in the Madison Fire Department and his participation as a voluntary fireman with the Madison Fire Department be terminated immediately by you because of the seriousness of his above-said (alleged) violations and his obvious total disregard of the property and interests of the residents of Madison and neighboring areas and the goals and purposes of the Madison Fire Department to safeguard and protect the public and property."

Endicott is accused on setting fire to a garage in the 1200 block of Grand Avenue, Madison, on Aug. 13, 1990.

He and another man, Daniel M. Land, 20, also of the 1400 block of Third Street, were each charged with one count of arson in connection with a March 7, 1991, fire at Jim's Tire Shop, 1342 State St.

Endicott was additionally charged with arson and attempted arson in regard to fires on March 11, 1991.

These fires, involving a 1971 Chevrolet pickup truck and a structure in the 200 block of Bend Road, occurred two days before he was initially charged on the first two counts of arson.

'Summer Fun' contest under way

Teen-agers are getting antsy, day-dreaming of school's end and leisurely days at the pool. Adults are suffering much the same, Spring fever.

They're thinking of summer's gone by — the best vacations of their lives. And we want to capture that.

We'll pop for a $25 dinner for the best essays by local residents on their summer vacation memories. There are two categories — high school students and adults. Essays should be in the 250- to 300-word range. There will be two winners in each category. Winners will be selected by editors.

Entries must be mailed to Journal Essays, 1815 Delmar, Granite City, Ill. 62040. Entries must be received no later than April 9. For information call 377-7700.

We plan to print the winning essays, and some of the others, in an upcoming issue.

5 youths charged in burglaries

GRANITE CITY — Five city youths were arrested Tuesday and sent to the Madison County Juvenile Detention Home in Edwardsville to await a hearing.

The five boys, ranging in age from 13 to 16 years, were charged with residential burglary.

Subsequent charges related to a burglary of a business in the 2800 block of Benton Street, possibly arson, reckless conduct, unlawful use of weapons and truancy, were expected to be filed at a petition hearing this week in Edwardsville, according to Detective Ned Tapp.

One of the youths was arrested at a home in the 2800 block of Iowa Street, where the alleged residential burglary occurred.

Tapp said an investigation led to two additional arrests at school, and two more at youths' homes.

New direction for streets

Displeased with street and sewer conditions, Granite City voters decided Tuesday, 3,530 to 3,172, to give Clayton "Jug" Harrison an opportunity to provide energetic new leadership for the city's street department.

Highly critical of the incumbent during the campaign (as Harrison also had been in a previous effort to defeat an earlier street superintendent), Harrison sought to expose inefficiencies he had seen as a longtime member of the department. Apparently, the public sensed there was considerable truth in these assertions, and voted accordingly.

Because better service to the public is imperative, all officials, employees and citizens should cooperate fully to upgrade street crews' resources and effectiveness.

3 new aldermen elected

Three aldermen seeking re-election lost on Tuesday. In Venice's 1st Ward, Michael Terrell topped Alderman Charles Collins 111 to 48. In Granite City's 1st Ward, Juanita Crawley overcame Alderman Frank Scarsdale 251 to 194. And in Granite City's 7th Ward, Sandra Crites beat Alderman Emerald Daves 965 to 527. Three other Venice aldermen, three Madison incumbents and five other Granite City council members gained re-election.

No particular pattern is evident in the aldermanic results, but it is worth noting that the 11 members of City Council in Granite City now will have double the number of women members, four instead of two.

Veterans win village races

Confidence in current Pontoon Beach officials was shown Tuesday by village voters, who re-elected Board President Glen Wilson (by six votes), Clerk Mary Warren and Trustees Irene Karlechik, Loren Madison and Louis Whitsell (the latter by 29 votes).

With this renewed showing of public support, these officials should redouble their efforts, in cooperation with other officeholders, to lead Pontoon Beach to new levels of economic growth and municipal service improvement.

New steel plant scheduled

Quid Citions welcome a new local industry. Robinson Steel, which said last week that construction will start this spring. An exact site has not been announced for the $10 million steel processing facility, but plans to locate it in this community are definite. It is expected to be fully operational in the second quarter of 1992.

Praise for the retiring board

Several weeks ago a friend of mine asked me what the paper was going to say about the retiring library board members in Granite City.

I told him that I didn't plan to say much, because I really didn't know what to say. The library's one of those kinds of things that is just there. You want a book. You get it. Simple.

So this friend suggested that he'd like to write something. A tribute to those people who courageously voted to convert Granite City's library system into a library district.

I told him I thought that would be a good idea since the timing was right. After all many of those board members were stepping down with this week's election of board members in the new Granite City Public Library District. In fact, the March meeting was the last one for most of the old board.

I told my friend to go ahead and write something and I'd use it as a guest column. He said that would be fine, but he preferred to remain anonymous. "I'll write something up, and bring it down, and you can do with it what you want," he said.

OK, I said, that's a long introduction to the following column. Since I'm on vacation this week, I gladly give over the space to a friend.

Dennis Grubaugh

First, the cast of characters. The outgoing board is made up of E. Marshall Schneider, James R. Schmedake, Marceline Williams, George Filcoff Sr., Ronald L. Coleman Sr., Helen Kuenstler, Haig Nighobossian, Mary Jo Akeman and Florence Moore. The new library district trustees effective April 9 are Schmedake, Williams, Coleman and Akeman from the current board; Kathy Schillinger, a resident of Chouteau Township; and Wilma Tongay. A seventh seat is still open.

My friend's commentary: "The Granite City Library Board realized (many months ago) that people from areas outside the library's traditional service area were, on a more frequent basis, coming into the library and requesting service. This made the board ask 'Why?'"

"By using the techniques of community analysis and long-range planning, the board recognized that over the last decade the community had changed and that the library's traditional service area was not covering the need. A larger service area most easily associated with the school district was more representative of the library's true service area."

"As a result of its study, the board identified and accepted the challenge of providing service to both the adults and the children of the school district."

"By proposing a library district, the board risked alienation from the traditional policy makers in the city, and from the residents of the city because it was offering to share resources of the library (valued at several million dollars) without any type of back charge. Oddly, the board also faced anger from some areas outside the city."

"The response from the residents of Granite City was to overwhelmingly support the library board and vote in favor of sharing the resources of the library with the city's new neighbors. Gratefully, the library board found that many new areas were willing to pay the cost of future library service and agreed to join the new library district."

"It took courage and strength to break with tradition and to recognize that through cooperation an improved future could be secured for the larger community. The board members' actions illustrated their capacity to put their common concern for the public good ahead of partisan concerns."

"The new, elected board will have big shoes to fill. If it can maintain the spirit of cooperation and positive direction of the retiring library board, our greater community should continue to receive premium library service."

"One of the first tasks of the newly elected district board might be to appoint a seventh member. In the spirit of the cooperation, the board should again show leadership by seeking and appointing someone from Nameoki Township so this new area of the library district also have representation."

Dennis Grubaugh is executive city editor of the Journals. His friend will remain anonymous.

Trip to dog pound not really routine

To the editor:

Friday, March 1, was a regular bi-weekly trip to the Madison County Humane Society's rented space at the county pound to exchange paper work, unload donated food, pick up timesheets and bills, etc.

However routine the trip may be for me, it is always a very difficult one.

Being a concerned "pet parent" and longtime Humane Society volunteer, I find it very disturbing to go anywhere near a building where it is necessary to house and kill thousands of dogs and cats every year.

In 1990, well over 1,000 cats and 3,000 dogs did not leave our county's animal control building alive.

On this particular day, only two months into 1991, dog No. 625 was brought to the pound. Although I am very much aware of the massive "unwanted pet" statistics, the "625 of 1991" really hit home as I held dog No. 625 in my arms.

No. 625 was a precious, very innocent, trusting, fluffy, fat little female puppy. She appeared healthy, approximately eight to 10 weeks of age and of German Shepherd heritage.

No. 625 was one of the fortunate few. The Humane Society just happened to have room for her in one of their three rented dog runs at the county animal control building.

This little one was wormed and vaccinated and she will get a second chance at life as the MCHS sees a new, responsible owner for her.

No. 625 will not have to endure the panic and terror of being in a packed gas chamber, or the pain and anxiety of an injection of "Fatal Plus," into her chest cavity.

The MCHS attempts to place as many dogs and cats as possible in new, responsible homes. There will never be enough homes for all the animals. As of March 1, the Humane Society was on dog adoption No. 100.

Very few dogs are reclaimed by owners. Therefore, approximately 500 puppies and dogs died in January and February of 1991 at our county pound.

Unfortunately, the grim statistics are similar for cats and kittens in Madison County.

The only answer for this incredible waste of life is to educate all pet owners about the responsibilities of pet ownership.

Pet ID tags and pet supervision are very important, but the bottom line is the spaying or neutering of all pets — "every litter really does hurt."

Every single argument that people use to justify not altering their pets is a cruel fallacy. It ultimately means only misery and suffering for more helpless animals somewhere down the line.

All pets benefit healthwise and behaviorally from being neutered/spayed. It is a burden on pets to remain intact.

Breeding pets is serious business. Not every purebred pet should be bred. AKC papers are proof only that your pet's parents were both registered and of the same breed. They are not proof of quality.

Please help reduce the unwanted-pet population and death at our Madison County Animal Control Building. Be a P.A.L. — Prevent A Litter! Spay or neuter your pets today, for their sake.

Kids facing abuse, neglect, poverty

To the editor:

Abuse of children has been steadily increasing throughout Illinois.

Children who suffer from physical abuse become trapped in their own environment, not knowing how to escape from the clutches of parents having difficulty coping with mental stress.

The parents may have been victims themselves of an abusive parent(s).

To neglect children is also a serious offense. Frequently, children are taken and placed in foster homes in the hope they eventually will be adopted by loving, caring adults while their parents face prosecution and imprisonment.

We all know that if children are to grow to adulthood healthy and maintain good attendance in school, they require appropriate medical care, necessary nutrition, supervision, and the essential encouragement of parents toward achievement.

What has been lacking for those of lower income has been medical care and oral hygiene.

Physicals are required before the start of school for children entering kindergarten, 1st grade, 5th grade and 9th grade. Immunizations are given if required.

But what if the child has frequent colds, flu or allergies? How can a child receive proper medical treatment if there are limitations of visits to a doctor's office, and the dosage has been decreased?

It has been the common goal of parents on lower income to provide adequately for their children, but it is almost as if parental income is the indicator as to how to be neglected because of these limitations.

Now that the recent severe recession cuts have been predicted to eliminate certain medical benefits for lower-income people, it will make it even more difficult to acquire and pay for medical expenses needed for the care of children.

And what of nutrition? How can parents provide the basic four food groups for school-age children? Food stamps last only about two and a half weeks, especially if there are teenagers or young children who are active sports and other school activities.

These children are already wearing cheap pairs of shoes which are hard to come by for those lacking experience, education and the appropriate clothing to wear. Purchasing clothing is expensive. Who would hire someone with holes in their shoes or with tattered clothes?

Survival is essential for children and adults whose only source of income has been severed, as the Public Aid cuts have achieved.

Courts failing to back up landlords

To the editor:

Third Ward Alderman Paul Fisk is ignorant of what a Madison County judge will do for a landlord. What good does it do for a landlord to go before a judge in Madison County? None.

Madison County, Ill., has a kangaroo justice system when dealing with landlord/tenant problems.

My landlady had a female tenant that had her boyfriend come into the apartment. They got into a fight and the apartment was wrecked.

The tenant, 17 years old, signed the rental contract to pay for legal and property damage. But my attorney, a highly respectable attorney, told me we could not prosecute her because she was a minor.

Are minors not responsible for their actions? They sign employment applications at 17 years old.

Another tenant decided he was not going to pay his rent because of bugs. He lived like a filthy pig. Trash bags full of garbage in a hot kitchen.

We could not shut off the utilities to get him to move, even if the utilities were paid in my landlady's name.

We went before a Madison County judge who signed an eviction order, but the judge did not set up payment schedules for the man to pay his rightful debt.

The man confessed to that judge that he owed the money. With courts like this one, who needs them? We need better landlord/tenant laws and better court systems in Madison County.

Why should we want to rent property to people? The laws protect the tenants. There is no fairness.

Thinks we judged Partney harshly

To the editor:

Your editorial about Dan Partney was very disgusting.

It is so obvious that you have a personal vendetta against Dan.

It is because Dan takes action over controversial issues, which automatically makes him a target for people like you who sit behind a desk and do nothing but write articles in judgment of others.

History proves that great men have suffered from criticism and injustice by the press.

People like Churchill, Truman, F.D.R. and Martin Luther King were judged harshly and unfairly by people who wielded the pen indiscriminately.

I have no ax to grind, but I do know Dan Partney, and I know that he has the well-being of Granite City and its people at heart.

Let's face it — no other person in Granite City, or any other city for that matter, would have made the front page of a newspaper because of a discrepancy in a sewer bill.

Isn't it time you and your staff write about the real issues concerning residents in our area, and isn't it time you and your paper turn professional?

Flags, sidewalks enhance patriotism

To the editor:

I would like to comment on the fine display of the American flag banners along Madison Avenue, Netherland Avenue and downtown Granite City.

They add color and are patriotic. With Flag Day approaching, and June, there will be a patriotic event at the Greater Granite City War Memorial to honor our flag and country. Watch for it.

The banners are timely, and appreciated — a highly visible display of "Old Glory."

The improvement of the sidewalks downtown, and recently the extension of the new sidewalks with the brown rock surfacing modification, really enhance the War Memorial area.

New, all-weather flags have been placed at the Memorial to honor our war dead.

The yellow ribbons and red, white, and blue ribbons placed on telephone poles and light standards in Granite City are a welcome sight and a reminder of the recent conflict in the Persian Gulf.

Thanks to everyone who had something to do with these colorful reminders and ribbons.

Chefs plan help for the hungry 'Taste of the Nation' to raise money for needy

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Most people think hunger exists only in Third World nations such as Ethiopia, Cambodia and India.

What few people realize is that at least 20 million Americans suffer some degree of hunger each week, according to statistics from the U.S. House of Representatives Select Committee on Hunger.

But at least one effort is hoping to help meet the problem of hunger in this country. More than 40 restaurants in the St. Louis metropolitan area are joining together for "Taste of the Nation."

A national fund-raiser set for Sunday, April 28, at Shaw Park in Clayton, "Taste of the Nation" will help fight hunger in the U.S., said Sharon Van Meter, chairman of the area benefit and a Granite City resident.

More than 30 cities in the United States will present their own

"Taste of the Nation" during the week of April 21-28.

Area restaurants, including Franco's in Belleville, the Westfield House near Freeburg and Elsie's Landing in Alton, will be serving samples of their cuisine at the "Taste of the Nation" gala, which will raise money for local food banks, Van Meter said.

"These chefs feed people for a living, so why not get them to cook to help hungry people," she said.

For a $30 donation, area residents are invited to sample the food and wine prepared by the 41 restaurants taking part in the event.

"It is a chance to help some people who may be hungry," said Franco's San Filippo, owner of Franco's Italian restaurant in Belleville. "We could help people make a better life for themselves."

He plans to prepare 300 stuffed eggplants for the event. Franco's has been in Belleville for four years and was in Cahokia for 9 years prior to that. San Filippo has donated money to the National Cancer Society for the past three years, but he saw "Taste of the Nation" as an opportunity to do more than just mail a check to charity.

Marilyn Westerfield, owner of the Westfield House, which includes a bed and breakfast, is also happy to be participating in a fund-raiser.

"Many people don't realize there is hunger in St. Louis, but I believe there are hungry people out there who need our help," Westerfield said.

She and her husband, Jim, along with three other employees of the restaurant, will be serving marinated pork loin with horseradish-apple sauce at the fund-raiser, Westerfield said.

She said this type of fund-raiser is more effective than asking for donations.

"Any time you are offering something, instead of asking for donations of money, people are more likely to participate," she said.

"Taste of the Nation" sponsored by Bon Appetit magazine, is strictly a fund-raiser, Van Meter said. The restaurants are donating food, time and service to raise money for the hungry.

Based on its success in other cities, Van Meter predicts between 1,000 and 1,200 people will turn out for the St. Louis event.

"Taste of the Nation" is the annual, national fund-raiser for Share Our Strength, a non-profit network of food professionals organized in 1984 to fight hunger in the United States.

Across the nation, more than 3,000 chefs representing 1,700 restaurants will be serving food to 40,000 people during that week of April.

Last year, 4,000 people attended in Minneapolis alone, Van Meter said.

SOS expects to raise $2 million nationally, with 100 percent of the profits from the events in each city going to food banks.

Seventy percent of the ticket sales from each event goes to agencies within the cities where the fund-raiser is held, while 10 percent is earmarked for high-need rural areas within the state and 20 percent is pooled nationally for grants to international relief and development agencies.

In St. Louis, the profits will go to the St. Louis Food Bank, which sponsors, among other projects, a job-training program at McDonald's Restaurant in St. Louis.

Van Meter is heavily involved in the fight against hunger. She volunteers at area food banks, and in the past, she had donated her time and effort to food shelters and soup kitchens.

Also, she works for Operation Food Search, an organization that feeds hungry people with the food not used by restaurants.

"There is a hunger issue in the St. Louis area, but there doesn't have to be one," Van Meter said.

"Taste of the Nation" food and wine tasting fund-raiser will be held from 1-5 p.m. on Sunday, April 28, in Shaw Park.

Tickets cost $30. They are available at Cafe Zoe, at Calfing, Chez Louis or by calling (314) 621-4779.

Local woman had doubts about heading hunger event

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Organizing a nationally-known fund-raiser to help fight hunger is no small task.

And Sharon Van Meter, chairman of the St. Louis area "Taste of the Nation," had many reservations about undertaking such a project, including whether she was the right person for the position and giving up her job as a chef for six months.

But all that changed one night, when Van Meter and another chef stepped outside the Cafe de France restaurant in St. Louis to empty the trash.

The pair were discussing the hunger problem when they found a man eating out of a dumpster in the alley.

Then she knew she had to make the commitment.

"I had to do this," she said. "Because you can only get so much out of a career. When I saw there was a definite need, I had to give something back."

And now she refers to that man she saw in the dumpster as her boss.

"There is a hunger issue in St. Louis and this is a challenge to raise money for hunger," Van Meter said of chairing the April 28 fund-raiser.

She has all the right ingredients to assume the role of chairman. A native of Granite City, she is a classically trained French chef and a freelance writer for Bon Appetit and Food and Wine magazines.

She also had worked for many restaurants in Europe and the United States, as well as reviewing restaurants for the gourmet magazines, before returning to Granite City and taking a position as a chef at Cafe de France in St. Louis.

Share Our Strength, a national network of food professionals dedicated to fighting hunger, asked her to organize the St. Louis fund-raiser because of her affiliation with Bon Appetit magazine, which sponsors the event.

Van Meter is heavily involved in the fight against hunger. She volunteers at area food banks, and in the past, she had donated her time and effort to food shelters and soup kitchens.

Also, she works for Operation Food Search, an organization that feeds hungry people with the food not used by restaurants.

Urge to merge continuing in 1991, will affect 2 local banking groups

There are still independent banks in the Quad City area, of course, but I can also recall attending stockholder meetings in Granite City of two multi-bank groups.

Now, those meetings have shifted to Fairview Heights and Belleville. And the merger trend in 1991 may move those two headquarters even farther, to Springfield, Ill., and St. Louis.

DREW KARANDJEFF, chairman and president of Central Banc System Inc. (including the former Granite City Trust and Savings Bank), announced Feb. 8 that Central has entered into a merger agreement with Firstbank of Illinois Co., a bank holding company that owns seven Illinois banks with total assets of $1.15 billion.

With Central slated to become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Firstbank, Karandjeff, a former Granite City resident, said Friday: "Your board believes this transaction is in the best interest of Central shareholders."

The merger plan requires an approving vote of two-thirds of Central's issued and outstanding common shares of stock. In addition, regulatory approvals are now being sought, he said.

WITHIN TWO MONTHS, there is expected to be a special meeting of shareholders to vote on the merger. The merger could occur shortly afterward.

Karandjeff said, "We will not be having our usual annual meeting this April. Any directors elected at such a meeting would most likely serve for only a short time prior to consummation of the merger transaction. Your current directors (will) continue to serve pending the vote on the merger."

GEORGE T. WILKINS JR., a local doctor and former Granite City resident, is one of five directors up for re-election April 23 to the Magna Group Inc. board.

Centered in Belleville, 1,400-employee Magna has for several years owned the former First Granite City National Bank.

In early 1990, the latter bank, Magna of Granite City, was merged with a Wood River bank.

service to central and southern Illinois, St. Louis, St. Charles, Kansas City and Springfield, Mo.

SPECIAL MEETINGS are planned in mid-1991 to vote on the transaction, which is subject to regulatory authorities.

The goals are: serving as "a strong retail banking entity," further expansion, community consciousness, and "quality retail financial services to individuals and businesses in our market areas."

Magna was formed in 1974 as a one-bank holding company for Magna Bank, N.A. (North America), then a Belleville bank with $125 million in assets.

It has expanded to 38 times that size and currently is the sixth largest banking organization in Illinois.

NOW THE BIGGEST in Illinois outside the Chicago area, Magna Bank, N.A., remains the lead bank for a company that acquired 26 other financial institutions in the past decade (as far as Bloomington on the north end and Sesser on the south).

It now consists of eight banks in 27 communities and 50 sites, plus a trust company (that includes Granite City) and a data processing firm.

Magna will convert Decatur-Springfield-McLean County Magna of Central Illinois and Central-Sesser into Magna of Southern Illinois by June 30.

ACTIVE SINCE 1954 in Magna Bank, N.A., and its predecessor, William S. Badgley, 61, is the group's chairman and president.

G. Thomas Andes, 48, is vice chairman of Magna Group.

Their outlook, despite the slowing economy, is that Magna is successfully maintaining asset quality and that "the banking industry in the Midwest is expected to fare better than other areas" of the economy and business world.

With a 2.5-million population, the greater St. Louis area is the 11th largest in the United States.

St. Louis is ranked third among metro areas with six Fortune-100 companies headquartered here and ranked sixth with 16 Forbes-500 industrial and service corporations headquartered in the area.

St. John Lutheran Church honors pastor of 42 years

GRANITE CITY — A man who was ordained here and spent his entire ministerial life serving local parishioners also influenced the lives of thousands of others for more than four decades.

St. John Lutheran Church honored the Rev. Dr. Samuel Boda, its pastor of 42 years, on Palm Sunday with a retirement banquet.

The banquet followed the Palm Sunday morning worship service at the church, 2001 St. Clair Ave., where the minister had just preached his "farewell sermon."

More than 200 attended the festive dinner and program. Many expressed congratulatory greetings and presented gifts. Harold Gebhardt and Larry Miskell, church officers, were in charge.

Home for the special occasion were the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Boda, both of Granite City, also were present.

Embellishing the Palm Sunday service with special music were: Phyllis Jarabak, at the organ; Ellen Miller, flute; Betsy Jarabak and Katie Miller, flutists; and Luther S. Boda, trumpeter. Samuel and Lydia Boda arrived at St. John Lutheran Church in Granite City on March 2, 1949, and he was ordained and installed as pastor of the church on March 27, 1949. At that time, the church was located on the corner of East 24th Street and Bromley Avenue.

Boda's final function at St. John Lutheran will be participating in the installation of the new pastor, the Rev. Brian Hagler, on Sunday, April 14, at 4 p.m., when Pastor Boda will step down and the new minister will take over.

For the present, Boda will continue to serve as the vacancy pastor at Concordia Lutheran Church, 2301 Grand Ave. In the local area, Pastor Boda has been involved in the activities of the Lutheran Bureau and the Protestant Welfare Association and currently serves on the Lay Advisory Board of St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The minister was born Nov. 1, 1924, in Boyceville, Wis., the second son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Andrew Boda. When he was two years old, the family moved to Lorain, Ohio, where his father served as pastor for the next 22 years.

Boda received his elementary education in parochial and public schools in Lorain and attended Concordia High School and Concordia Junior College in Fort Wayne, Ind. In 1944 he entered Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, graduating in 1948. While doing graduate work at the seminary, he served as assistant to the Rev. Dr. Clarence Peters at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, St. Louis.

The following year Boda accepted the call to St. John Lutheran Church in Granite City and, on March 27, 1949, was ordained into the ministry at the old, white frame church at East 24th and Bromley. He was then installed as pastor.

The congregation outgrew its facilities and relocated to a five-acre tract of land on St. Clair Avenue, purchased in 1956 at a cost of $10,000.

The dedication of the new, contemporary-style structure took place in September 1959.

A new parsonage was built in 1969 on the church grounds and a new Baldwin electronic organ was housed in the church balcony.

With visitation evangelism its main thrust in its new community, "The Lord added steadily to the church," the minister said.

Mortgage-burning took place in 1981 and the church choir celebrated its 25th consecutive Christmas candlelight choral service in 1986.

On the 65th anniversary of its founding, March 18, 1988, the congregation celebrated the fact that the church was completely "debt-free."

Pastor Boda has served on many Synodical and district boards and committees in the areas of evangelism, stewardship and the Student Welfare

Board and Missions.

For many years he also was a lecturer for summer youth camps in Illinois, Missouri and Wisconsin.

He currently serves as archivist of the Synod of Evangelical Lutheran Churches District and also as a member of the Ethnic and Historical Committee of the Concordia Historical Institute of St. Louis. He is an appointed member of the Committee on Adjudication of the District.

In 1955, Concordia Seminary awarded Boda the earned degree of master of sacred theology and in 1965 the earned degree of doctor of theology. For several years he served as guest instructor at Concordia Seminary in the graduate school and in its undergraduate school.

Pastor Boda has two brothers, Dr. John Boda of Florida State University and Dr. Dan Boda of Furman University, Greenville, S.C., and two sisters, Ann Maack, married to the Rev. Roy Maack, Baltimore, and Ruth Martin, who is married to Ron Martin, Miami, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Boda have four children: Phyllis Jarabak, a River Forest graduate, organist and piano teacher, who is married to the Rev. Godfrey Jarabak, Woodbine, Md.; Ellen Miller, a River Forest graduate, organist and flute teacher, married to John Miller, band director of Walther High School in Maywood, Ill.; James Boda, who attended Southern Illinois University with a major in art history; and Luther Boda, who attended Belleville Area College with a major in business and Bailey Technical Institute with a major in automotive mechanics.

Rev. Samuel Boda pastor retiring

During the 42 years of his parish ministry, Boda received "divine calls" (invitations) to serve as parish pastor at churches in Chicago, Detroit, Lakeview-Cleveland, Montreal and Barrie, Ontario, as well as to churches in Florida, Texas, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana and Illinois.

He remained here throughout the 42 years and his St. John Church parishioners say he has personified the namesake of his church, St. John, the apostle of Love.

Activities to highlight Prevent-A-Litter Month

In the United States, more than 70,000 kittens and puppies are born each day. Approximately 10 million pets are killed each year because there aren't enough homes for the mail. At Madison County Animal Control, 70 dogs and 30 cats are destroyed each week. Many of these animals are purebreds.

Ledy Vankavage, president of Madison County Humane Society, stated, "The pet overpopulation problem in Madison County is overwhelming."

One week at Madison County Animal Control, a purebred Boston terrier, a purebred Pekingese and a purebred poodle were killed in the gas chamber along with 28 other puppies and dogs because no homes could be found for them. It's the hardest when you see a whole litter of pups and kittens destroyed before they ever had a chance to live. You become extremely intolerant of irresponsible owners who allow their animals to breed."

To draw attention to this crisis, Granite City has designated April as Prevent-A-Litter Month and is outfitting its vehicles with Prevent-A-Litter bumper stickers.

Vollman Advertising of Collinsville has donated a Prevent-A-

Litter billboard located at the intersection of Illinois 162 and State Aid 35, WBGG of Aiken, WYOT of Glen Carbon, WINU of Highland and KSTL of St. Louis are airing Prevent-A-Litter public service announcements throughout the month.

The activities will culminate with a Prevent-A-Litter (PAL) Run, to be held April 28 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

A 5K run and a 1-mile fun run/walk will be held at 9:30 a.m. and begin at the Vandalia Center.

Participants in the fun run/walk can run or walk with their four-footed friends. Each participant will receive a Prevent-A-Litter litter bag, a doggie biscuit, and a Madison County Humane Society visor.

The cost of participating is $8 before the run or $12 on race day. Ray Hartman of The Riverfront Times will participate in the 5K run, and Jamie Allman from Channel 4 will be the celebrity race starter.

To register for the run, call 344-0716. The proceeds benefit the Madison County Humane Society's building fund.

March of Dimes winner makes hats for newborns at SEMC

GRANITE CITY — Skill, along with feelings of warmth and caring, are qualities most nurses strive for, but this year's March of Dimes Outstanding Nurse winner at St. Elizabeth Medical Center offers more.

Nancy Bunte, registered nurse in OB, is described by her supervisor as a nurse who goes the extra step.

"Not only is Nancy clinically skillful in all three areas of OB, labor and delivery, the nursery and postpartum, she exemplifies what an OB nurse can accomplish. She upholds OB nursing standards which makes her a role model for others," said Pat Schrader, OB/GYN supervisor.

Bunte, who has worked at SEMC for 14 years, found another way to contribute her talent to her job. She knits Santa hats for newborns who are in the nursery at Christmas.

"I like to knit while I'm sitting and watching TV, so I thought I could make something for newborns while they are in the hospital," she said. "I started making booties, but that didn't last long. They kept falling off the babies' feet."

So about five years ago, Bunte decided to knit caps for the babies at Christmas. She began by knitting seven caps in red and green, but the number has grown from seven that first year to 15 this past Christmas.

Bunte also makes Santa hats out of T-shirt material and adds pom-poms on the tips. Last year she made 40.

"This may seem like a lot of hard work, but I really enjoy doing it. I get so excited when I see a baby arrive in this world. I enjoy doing all I can for them."

Bunte said the March of Dimes award is very special to her since it comes from her peers.

"Being acknowledged by the people you work beside makes it mean more, because they know what you do better than anyone else." Although obstetric nursing was not her first choice when she graduated from the DePaul School of Nursing in 1969, it has become a great experience.

"I wanted to work in ICU in the beginning, but there were no openings. So I started in OB working midnights and I'm still there. Midnights work out really well for me now because I'm home during the day if my kids get sick and need to come home from school, and I'm home to get them off to school in the morning."

Bunte's three daughters keep her busy, but they help her at home and respect what she does. One is thinking about entering the medical field.

"My oldest, who is 17, said she would like to be a doctor, but definitely not a nurse. She doesn't like the hours."

Schrader said the purpose of the award is to acknowledge a nurse who is committed and to bring the goals of the March of Dimes to a local level. Bunte does not take this award lightly.

"The March of Dimes purpose is to try to prevent birth defects. In the laboring process it is hard to do that, but my job is to make sure the outcome of the birth is as safe as possible. I want to get both the mother and baby through the process safely."

"I am still thrilled when I see a baby born. The first baby I helped deliver will be 23 years old this summer and even through all those years I still feel the excitement with each one."

Bunte's next project? She is pondering the idea of making Easter caps with bunny ears.

Reknowned pianist at SIUE

Ruth Slenczynska Kerr, internationally recognized pianist, will hold a seminar Wednesday, April 10, at 1 p.m. in the Dome Room of the Religion Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The program is part of SIUE's Dialogue for Senior Citizens and is free and open to the public.

Kerr, emerita professor of music at SIUE, will demonstrate how she puts together concert programs suitable for international audiences. She will also perform some of the compositions.

Wilson

"It is the first time I've seen people coming out of the polls crying. There were adult people crying. I understand the FBI was there to make sure no one's constitutional rights were violated and one man was there with a video camera."

Gaudette was referring to balloting by residents of two homes for the developmentally disabled. Although he was not questioning the right of any resident to vote, Gaudette said the incident resulted in tears from some and anger among others.

The whole thing was a set-up, Gaudette said. The balloting process by the 18 to 20 persons required about two hours at the polls, the presence of Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles and some emotionally upset people.

"We did well considering the four tickets. I was amazed," Gaudette said. "We will have to see how things work out. The figures are unofficial right now and six votes is less than one per cent."

Wilson was not at the Senior Center polling place when the newly registered voters from the developmentally disabled homes arrived, he said.

"It's a mess at that poll," Wilson said. "People were running in and out of the poll like nobody's business," he said.

Incumbent Village Clerk Mary Warren, who ran with Gaudette on the Concerned Action Party ticket, totaled 45 votes.

"I really appreciate everyone's support. We had a lot of good people behind us who worked very hard in this election," Warren said.

He added that he suspected fraud in the registration procedure, alleging that one of the candidates from the Progressive Action Party (the ticket led by Mayor Glen Wilson) had registered all of the disabled residents and then arranged for them to vote.

Candidates from the New Direction Party (the ticket headed by Randy Presswood) made similar allegations.

But at 5:30 p.m. (90 minutes before the polls closed) Bowles arrived at the scene. She said the individuals were entitled to vote.

Later, she reported that, once that procedure was clarified, all went smoothly. Bowles said the individuals requiring assistance were aided by two voting judges, one Democratic and one Republican.

A record number of ballots (1,031) was cast in the closely contested races in the village.

Warfield had boasted of support from 34 of the 36 Granite City Democratic precinct committee members throughout his campaign.

"This (victory) is unbelievable," a Harrison supporter said.

"I guess the voters have given a message to politicians that they won't put up with the status quo any longer."

Harrison's headquarters remained open well into Wednesday morning. Several of those who had been in Warfield's party arrived to congratulate Harrison.

"We beat the machine" was the catchphrase for the remainder of the time at Harrison's party.

Psalm 40:3... "And he hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto our God."

The mercies of God were abundant in the life of David, King of Israel. He has received an answer to prayer and God had turned his life around. David must have been at the lowest point of his life. He called it a horrible pit, full of miry clay.

David prayed. He also waited patiently. We must not get anxious when we pray. Pray, then trust God for the answer. He hears you!

God brought David out of the pit. He put his feet on solid ground and established his goings. And God will turn your life around, also. Nothing is impossible with God.

Let Him bring you out. Today.

Warrior netters get split in first two matches

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — The Warrior tennis team saw the strongest and weakest parts of their schedule in the first two days of the season. The results were predictable.

At Cahokia on Monday, Granite City overwhelmed the Comanches 8-0. On Tuesday, the Warriors were handed a 9-0 drubbing by Belleville East, one of the area's top squads.

Raffi Karbalian and Dan Debert both won 6-0, 6-0 in the top two singles matches Monday. Scott Portell topped Paul Schneeburger 3-6, 6-1, 7-5. Sunil Kumar posted a 6-0, 6-2 win over Kenny Starr 6-0, 6-2. The doubles bracket was just as easy. Karbalian and Debert didn't lose a game in their match at No. 1. Portell and Nathan McClain — who won at No. 6 singles by default — stopped Hector Gonzalez and Chris Caswell 6-3, 6-1. John Gilmore and Mark Thornberry completed the sweep by beating David Haas and Matt Johnson 6-3, 6-3.

The Lancers won all the singles matches in straight sets Tuesday. McClain and Debert both won a combined five games in two sets and Karbalian won four games at No. 1 singles against Mike Benivenga.

"We expected this from East," said Warrior coach Allen Lobdell. "East has had four good matches already and that experience helps. We are still at the next level, right under the Belleville teams."

Karbalian and Debert took East's top doubles tandem of Benivenga and Scott Schultz three sets before bowing out 6-7, 7-6, 6-4 in a marathon contest. It took more than two hours and had to be moved under the lights in Wilson Park.

"Raffi and Danny played strong," said Lobdell. "They are going to be a real tough doubles team."

Lobdell used the same lineup against the Lancers as he did Monday, with the exception of the No. 3 doubles team. Carmody and Kumar teamed up Tuesday.

The Warriors are in Waterloo for a 4 p.m. match today.

Soccer

We will with a little more experience," said Kosberg. "Their goal was just an excellent play. They beat us in that area of the field several times."

Caryn Chasteen, the Lady Kahoks' standout junior, played an outstanding game. But she went down with a severe cramp in her left leg after the third quarter. She did return early in the final period.

"Caryn played outrageously well," said Kosberg. "I was just about to say to someone that it was as good as I've seen her when she went down. We don't have the depth we've had in the past. The last couple years we could have lost just about any two players and been all right. We're not to that point yet with this team."

After allowing the Lady Kahoks room to operate in the first half, the Lady Warriors tightened up defensively in the second half and had a couple of chances for a second goal. Schuster robbed freshman Brooke Bjorkman from in close after Lenzi stole the ball on right wing.

"We were a little too hurried at first," said Baker. "That's not surprising because of our youth. But we got some very good games out of the freshmen (Bjorkman and Kami Kessel). Beth Rapoff had an injury and Stephanie was steady as usual in goal."

Surprisingly, the Lady Warriors didn't have a single corner kick. Corner kicks — and restarts in general — are a trademark of Baker's teams. The Lady Kahoks had just one corner themselves.

"That might be because of our lack of size," said Baker. "We weren't able to force things deep in their end. Collinsville has some good, strong players. This certainly isn't the end of their season."

Baseball

Sinak broke the game open with a three-run homer off Chris Hill in the fourth. Dan Partney, who had a sacrifice fly earlier, made it 12-0 with a two-run homer in the bottom of the fourth, but then Mike Wegman came out of the bullpen.

Wegman allowed a single base-runner in four innings of relief and wiped that one out with a double play grounder off the bat of Reeves. He struck out five and hastened the ending of what became a slowly-played game.

"It looked like he was throwing fairly hard, but he was throwing straight," said Stegemeier. "I thought we might be able to do something against him."

Wegman was disappointed that he seemed to sit back and didn't hustle in the first game until Ryan's home run made it close. We'll be dangerous as long as he keeps hitting the daylights out of the ball. But now we'll see how we react to losing."

NOTES: Reeves pitches in the Southwestern Conference opener today at 4:30 at Varsity Field against Alton (6-2). The Wood River game has been rescheduled for 4 p.m. Monday at Wood River High School.

Open house largest ever for company

Coldwell Banker is staging the largest open house event in company history, with tens of thousands of homes in North America open for viewing the first three weekends in April.

"From April 13-21, there will be several homes open to potential buyers, homes that are listed with Coldwell Banker in Granite City," said John Blasingame, broker of Coldwell Banker Star Realtor.

This is Coldwell Banker's fifth annual Spring Open House Celebration. The 1991 theme incorporates the company's 1991 national advertising campaign, "Now's the time to make your move."

"Home prices are more affordable, interest rates are more attractive and right now is an opportune time to buy a home," said Blasingame.

"Our annual Spring Open House Celebration is an effective way for us to bring home buyers and sellers together."

Coldwell Banker Star Realtors is located at 3701-D Nameoki Road. For local real estate information, the phone number is 876-0024.

Coldwell Banker has nearly 1,900 residential real estate offices and more than 40,000 sales associates in North America. It is a member of the Sears Financial Network.

Local woman earns award

Nancy K. O'Dell of Granite City recently received an ASAP (Accomplished, Skillfully and Promptly) Award from the Defense Mapping Agency Aerospace Center.

This award is given to Aerospace Center employees who perform beyond expectations in an assignment of short duration demanding quick action.

Located in St. Louis, the Defense Mapping Agency Aerospace Center provides worldwide mapping support for the Department of Defense.

Its aerospace products are used in flights of all military aircraft, training in aircraft simulators, missile guidance systems and manned space missions.

GTE, Contel are merged

GTE and Contel have announced the closing of their $6.6 billion merger, the largest in telecommunications history. The merged company becomes the largest and most geographically diverse U.S.-based local telephone company.

"For the past eight months, a team of GTE and Contel employees have worked extremely hard to complete plans for their merger," said Kent P. Foster, president of GTE Telephone Operations. "Now that the merger process is completed, we can begin the task of formally integrating and blending the management and operational strengths of the two companies."

According to Foster, some integration plans will be implemented in the very near future and others will occur over the next two years.

"The most critical element of the merger planning process was to ensure that both customers of GTE and Contel continue to enjoy excellent telephone service during this transition," said Foster.

Bankers learn 'how to survive a robbery'

Bank vice-presidents and loan officers, tellers and security officials were among those who attended a special seminar at the American Legion Hall in New Baden January 24.

Special Agent Darin Werking of the Federal Bureau of Investigation hosted more than 200 financial institution personnel and law enforcement officers during a seminar titled, "How To Survive A Bank Robbery."

Granite City Police Crime Prevention Officer Michael Sparks accompanied some 35 local banking officials to the seminar, presented by the Southern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

"In view of the recent bank robberies in our area, this seminar is quite timely," said Helen Dooley of Central Bank of Granite City.

Werking drew a great deal of interest when he pulled from a suitcase two machine guns and a hand grenade. "These weapons were used by a lone bank robber a few years ago in Madison County. This guy meant business," said Werking.

First Granite City Savings took the attendance honors in sending all 14 of its tellers. When asked why, Sandy Rogers replied, "Since we experienced a robbery several years ago, we decided to send all our tellers to this seminar."

Werking concluded the evening with a question-and-answer session during which he emphasized the importance of banks working together with the local police departments in preventing and surviving a bank robbery.

Where there's a will, there is a good way, experts say

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

Estate attorneys throughout the region are unanimous: You ought to have a will that tells relatives how to divide your assets after your death. Because where there's no will, state law has a way for divvying up the estate—and that formula might benefit someone you wouldn't want to reward.

An estate plan that's gaining favor is the living trust, document that "looks as much to today as to the future," says Sidney Crouch, chairman of the probate and trust division of the Bar Association of Metropolitan St. Louis.

Chief advantage of a living trust: If you become incapacitated, the trust document names a trustee to look after your financial affairs, such as paying hospital or nursing-home bills.

A will, on the other hand, is intended to speak at your death—and that's when it speaks. It is meaningless until you are deceased, explains Crouch, a vice president at Boaten's Trust Co.

Most people are motivated to begin planning their estates when the realization that they won't live forever sinks in, attorney says. But that same realization ultimately paralyzes many more who start the process, attorneys say. Marc Kramer reports he has two drawers filled with wills and living trusts that have yet to be signed.

"They have this fear they're going to die" once the ink is dry, the downtown attorney says.

The irony is that "this is one area where they can least afford to procrastinate," says Ben Keller, with Rosenblum, Goldenherb, Silverstein & Zafft, a Clayton law firm.

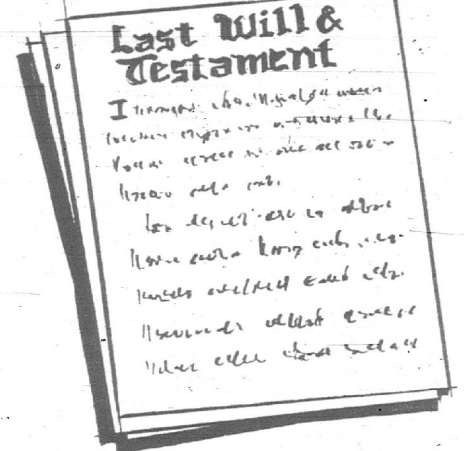

"I advise everyone who asks (about wills) to have an update will, at a minimum," says Charles Reddy of Armstrong Teasdale, Schaffly Davis & Dicus, downtown. What a will does is let you designate who will receive your property, who will be guardian of your minor children.

Without a will, the probate court will make those decisions for you, attorneys say.

And probate court can become a lengthy and expensive proposition. St. Charles attorney Rudy Beck says probate cases can drag on for up to two years—in some cases longer—and cost 5 to 7 percent of the estate's assets.

The biggest probate expenses are attorneys fees and fees paid the personal representative, formerly known as an executor, says St. Louis County Probate Judge Louis Kohn.

There are other costs too. A court-appointed personal representative must post a bond. Citing a case he is handling, Belleville lawyer Dennis Jackewitz figures that bonding requirement will cost a woman whose husband died without a will about $2,800 a year in addition to other expenses.

The cost to write a will can range from $100 to more than $500, depending on the complexity of the document. But the person writing the will generally can circumvent the bonding requirement by stating that a personal representative does not have to be bonded.

A will also doesn't avoid probate—most wills are filed there. But it does allow many expenses associated with probate to be avoided.

The only way to avoid probate is to get assets out of your own name," Kohn says.

That is precisely what a living trust does.

All assets—the house, the property at the lake, stocks and so on—are signed over to the trust. You don't lose control over the assets of the trust because you are the trustee of the trust.

The main benefit of the trust document is that it provides for contingencies. "That's where the living trust and durable power of attorney act like a champ," Beck says. If you die or become incapacitated—most trusts require a statement to that effect from at least one physician—the trust document appoints a successor to replace you as trustee.

This person has the power of attorney, which the legal authority to act on your behalf. And you selected your successor trustee, usually a friend or relative, when writing the trust.

Kramer recommends listing at least three successor trustees—or personal representatives in wills—to cover contingencies. For example, your first choice as successor trustee might die before the trust kicks in or the will is executed.

Relatives of an incapacitated person without a living trust cannot tap the stricken person's bank account to pay bills until the probate court appoints a conservator, a legal proceeding that can cost upwards of $1,000, Kramer says.

A living trust, including the will with instructions on how the estate is to be divided, typically costs $650 to $1,000, although $2,000 isn't unheard of with complicated estates, the lawyers report.

SIUE to study need for cultural center

SIUE officials will know by Aug. 31 if Southwestern Illinois needs a new cultural center.

The Illinois Arts Council recently awarded $17,200 to the university to study the region's cultural needs. SIUE will put another $17,200 in labor and materials into the study.

The study's outcome will determine if the university will make long-range plans for a large cultural center, said Richard Walker, SIUE academic marketing coordinator. "If the people expect a place that offers middle-of-the-road entertainment, then we need a bigger auditorium," Walker said. "If they need something for children's theater, then it would be smaller."

If the study shows a cultural center is needed, Walker said it will be at least five years before it opens.

"If we build one, it will be larger than 400 seats," Walker said.

Walker said SIUE's Communications Building Theater, which holds 400 people, and the Metcalf Student Experimental Theater, which holds 100 people, are inadequate for many performances.

Square Dance festival set

The Belle-Clair Exposition Hall in Belleville will be filled with the sounds of clucking heels, sashaying dancers and callers exhorting dancers to swing your partner and do-si-do, as the Greater St. Louis Folk and Square Dance Federation presents its 43rd Square and Round Dance Festival this weekend.

The event is expected to draw between 2,000 and 2,300 square and round dancers, from 100 different square dance clubs, said Don Steinkamp of Belleville, one of the organizers.

Some dancers will travel 100 to 150 miles to get to the festival, which slated for 7:30 p.m. to 11:45 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday.

The program includes square and round dance balls Friday and Saturday evenings, after parties, square and round dance workshops all day Saturday, costume displays and information on club activities. Around 35 of the clubs attending will have informational booths.

You don't have to be a square or round dancer to attend the event; spectators will be admitted for a $3 donation. Steinkamp recommended spectators come on Saturday afternoon.
